

Dear Prospective Applicant,

I invite you to experience an extraordinary learning opportunity for regulatory professionals seeking quantitative and qualitative approaches to managing increased responsibility. The RAPS Executive Development Program is an incomparable initiative created to help prepare experienced regulatory professionals like you to take on broader business leadership and strategic responsibilities within the global landscape of the profession.

Now more than ever, succeeding as a regulatory professional requires more than scientific and technical knowledge; it requires finely developed business and management skills. The RAPS Executive Development Program is specifically designed to help you build and develop these critical business skills.

Partnering with two distinguished schools of business at world-renowned institutions, RAPS brings you a unique management program that will prepare you to lead your organization through the changing business landscape of the healthcare product industry. 2009 sessions include:

- The UC Berkeley Center for Executive Education, Haas School of Business
(23–26 February 2009)
- Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University
(15–18 June 2009)

I encourage you to review the enclosed brochure and take advantage of this opportunity for yourself and for your regulatory management team. This investment in your professional development promises to yield significant returns today and in the future.

Sincerely,

Sherry Keramidas, PhD, CAE
Executive Director
